SYNOPSIS

It is the year 2028 and antibiotics are no longer effective. A corporation called Lifeline has invented a health chip which everyone can get for free via the NHS.

You can buy an upgrade which is effective against more infections and diseases. In 2028 computing and processing power is restricted however for someone to have an upgrade some one has to die for the power to be transferred. People are dieing randomly. Lifeline are launching their 2nd upgrade which is expected to earn them billions along with their ministerial backer.

Daniel Avery has lost his wife and daughter in such circumstances and recent nightmares and flashbacks have instigated him to investigate.

He slowly uncovers the truth with the help of a rebel group of the pull for power and greed that goes right to the top.

Written & Produced by Andy Blithe

Directed & Produced by Kris Smith

Andy & Kris have 25 years combined experience in Indie Filmmaking on no or very little budget productions. They pooled their resources and knowlege to film Buying Time which in essence was a No Budget Production. All actors and crew gave their time for free and also locations were provided on the same basis. The dedication to the project from all meant we were able to complete the film from script to final edit in an amazing 7 months. For a film with a large budget thats quite an achievement, for an Indie Film on no budget that is almost a miracle.
